

Our Social Impact Statement

Humm Productions is a social enterprise non-profit media collaborative that features inspirational stories of everyday people who often go unrecognized and yet do the extraordinary for our communities. Our current and developing network of shows spotlight individuals and organizations that focus on the greater good, that test and improve the human experience through civil litigation, that share the power and influence of social groups.

We blend stories of community organizations that provide beneficial services to all with corporate mission-driven cause partnerships to inform audiences about what brands and local organizations do, what they stand for, and who they serve .

In addition to providing our services to our featured organization storytellers at no charge, our goal is to celebrate their efforts by providing annual micro-grants to selected non-profits committed to a just and clean world, and inspire audiences to work together to imagine the possible and take action to produce positive change.
